HONGKONG, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1892.

THE GREAT UNWASHED.

ONE of the greatest anomalies in this most anomalous colony is that hybrid institution known as the Bench of Justices—by a singular misuse of the English language known as Justices of the Peace. We are not aware what qualification is considered a res qua non in Hongkong for a Justice of the Peace, but we do know that in the latest published list of these worthies, there are a goodly crowd who, if they had their deserts, would now be serving a lengthy term of penal servitude in Victoria Gaol. Were we to give names it would only hurt the feelings of a number of miserable objects already practically crushed out of reputable existence, and so we prefer, on this occasion, to place mercy before justice. But we intend to have our say regarding Hongkong's "Great Unwashed" all the same, and respectfully invite the attention of Governor Sir WILLIAM ROBINSON, the members of the Legislative Council, and the Hongkong community generally to a state of affairs which is, in plain English, a disgrace to the colony.

A meeting of the "Justices" was held yesterday to consider applications for public house licences for the ensuing year. There were present—in addition to Mr. H. E. WOODHOUSE, police magistrate, Major-General GORDON, captain-superintendent of police, and Commander HASTINGS, R.N., assistant harbour master, Captain G. C. ANDERSON, marine superintendent for JARDINE, MATHESON & Co., Mr. G. M. BAIN, alias "Brownie," who poses as Editor of the China Mail, Mr. W. DAWY, the well-known architect, Mr. GRANVILLE SHARP, a notorious professional philanthropist and champion land jobber, Mr. HARRY WICKING, ex-shopman of LANE, CRAWFORD & Co., and something in the Australian business, Mr. J. H. COX, an old and deservedly respected resident who is assistant in the time-honoured firm of TURNER & Co., Mr. H. M. MARTHA, a Parsee gentleman with a tendency towards cacothorax scribendi, Mr. A. SHELTON HOOPER, a clerk in the Hongkong Land Investment Co. and a representative specimen of the Hongkong special juror, Mr. G. T. VITCHE, a clerk in JARDINE, MATHESON & Co., whose position and ability are equally unknown quantities, the Hon. E. R. BELLIOS, and Mr. ROBERT LAYALL, the Secretary of the Hongkong Hotel Company. Outside the Government officials, this was certainly a lively crowd to decide the very important question of public house licences, and the majority of them—especially WICKING and HOOPER—acted up to their qualifications. WICKING made statements which he dared not allow to be reported; but all the Colony knows what he said. He objected to the licence of the Criterion Hotel being renewed because women went there, and—with characteristic inconsistency supported an application by a foreigner for what the police very plainly designated as well, a sort of place where this most worthy Justice of the Peace would doubtless be quite in his element. We have been at the Criterion several times and always found it a thoroughly well conducted establishment, which afforded a certain class of the community meals at a rate far beneath the ordinary hotel charges; and therefore we consider it a place whose general usefulness is its justification. WICKING objected to the licence being renewed because somebody had told him that the manager of the Criterion had been "a bad hat" in Calcutta or Bombay or somewhere; and WICKING, as is not unusual, wrote himself down an ass. The somebody—there is no necessity to mention names—denies the soft impeachment and consigns WICKING to a latitude where the heat is much greater than, say, 200 in the shade—and we have no doubt that this irrepressible busybody will find it convenient to take a back seat for some time to come. If he doesn't, we shall really consider the propriety and advisability of publishing a love poem, in prose, by Mr. WICKING, the moral of which is altogether at variance with his objections to the Criterion Hotel.

Why the Hongkong Hotel Co. should have undertaken the impossible task of opposing Mr. THOMAS's application for an adjacent licence for a grill-room in Queen's Road Central we cannot understand. The granting of a licence for what promises to prove a public convenience was a foregone conclusion, and Mr. HASTINGS's ridiculous objections and assumptions, especially his references to the Bay View Hotel, were not only childish, but from a man who professes to know something about law, in extremely bad taste.

It would serve no useful end to detail the further doings of "the Great Unwashed," which are all duly chronicled in their nakedness in the press; but it is to be hoped that the Government will lose no time in abolishing what has become a piece of public buffoonery; and will appoint a Licensing Committee composed of the two Magistrates, the Capt. Superintendent of Police and two unofficial members of the Legislative Council. The present system is a disgraceful fraud. Mr. WICKING objects to the Criterion and supports the "Galle Face;" Mr. HASTINGS, solicitor, opposes Mr. THOMAS's grill-room and advocates Mr. ADOLPH STERN's "pub" for foreign sailors. What next? WICKING and HASTINGS (solicitor) are fit subjects to be tarred with the same brush. As for the other members of this most amusing body, we prefer for the present to preserve a discreet silence. The Annual Sessions have been adjourned.

KENTUCKY was described at the Chicago Convention at the state—Where the maidens are the fairest and sweetest, where the matrons are the most wholesome and womanly, and where the whisky is so choice that temperance is a virtue.

WE have to thank the North China Herald office for a copy of "The Anti-Foreign Riots in China," a very interesting and handsomely bound volume that should be in the hands of all residents in the Far East who are interested in Chinese affairs.

At 1 o'clock this morning a Chinese detective dropped on board the Canton liner Hankow as soon as she entered the waters of the colony and arrested a couple of firemen who were conducting a game of bakoo on the lower deck. Mr. Hastings "stuck" them for $15 apiece this morning.

THE Hongkong Hotel flag was conspicuously displayed to-day—doubtless to commemorate the very important fact that Mr. Thomas, of Peak Hotel celebrity, had obtained a licence for a new Grill Room in Queen's Road Central. Live and let live; there's room enough in the world for us all, if we were only wise enough to know it.

THE Tamaki Company of Japanese acrobats, dancers, and jugglers, have been exceedingly successful during their stay at West Point, drawing large and profitable crowds of Chinese every night, and a good number of Europeans. For the special benefit of the latter, the company will show to-night and to-morrow in the City Hall. We can guarantee that all who go will be highly pleased.

MAJOR-GENERAL GORDON is always funny, he cannot help it, the flow of wit is quite natural and spontaneous; but we doubt if he ever said anything brighter than his reference yesterday at the Licensing Meeting to the "clerks and other gentlemen" who were to patronise Thomas's "Grill Room." "Clerks and other gentlemen" is an expression which sends the gallant Major-General to the top of the class of modern humorists.

The first stanza of a Member of Parliament below unseated for corrupt practices occurred in the reign of Elizabeth in 1571. One Thomas Long, who was a mayor and for Weibury, Willy, paid £4 to the mayor and a burress of the town named Wait for the seat. The House unseated the member, and issued an order that his money should be returned to him. Mr. Walter Long, who held a small office under the late Ministry, was his direct descendant.

A CORRESPONDENT writes—"Who was the uninitiated man that showed such profound ignorance of local military affairs as to refer to your issue of the 2nd inst. to an individual who does not exist, and to incidents that exist in his own vivid imagination only? There does not exist, and never did exist (within the past 20 years) a Barrack Sergeant Major in Hongkong, and moreover no non-commissioned officer left this station by the French mail on the date mentioned. One warrant officer and two non-commissioned officers (who are officers now) left this station on the 3rd inst., on completion of their term of Foreign Service, by the P. & O. Co's steamer Dombey, but none of them bearing the rank your military or other informant refers to, nor do their names resemble in the slightest degree the one mentioned."

THUS the Paris correspondent of the London Hawk—The inhabitants of the Philippine Islands have never been very remarkable for calmness of temper, and Mr. Tana (a suggestive name) seems to have some reason in his mind, having been born in the northernmost part of the islands, chiefly populated by that race. I need not relate how this savage artist became aware of his wife's infidelity, how he challenged her lover, who refused him satisfaction on the ground of innocence, and then how on the arrival on the scene of a certain Mr. Regid-r, a Spanish advocate hailing from Billiter Street, in the City of London, for the purpose, say the relatives, of reconciling the young couple, who were on the point of terms, he conceived that a bit of law and justice would do him good. In a fit of rage and jealousy he gave vent to his instincts of barbarity, cruelly wounding his wife and killing her mother. All Paris is wondering what the result of the trial will be, but I have little doubt that the dramatic circumstances of the case and the injured honour (if proved) of this brutt aveger will have so much weight with one of our morbid jurists that he will be acquitted, or only lightly punished, especially as even his wife's brother claims clemency for him.

UNDER the heading "In the name of the Prophet—Figs," a correspondent writes to the Shanghai Herald as follows—The Shanghai Mercury in giving some details of the late dreadful shipping disaster, winds up the direful tale, with the following piece of information tagged on—She (Bokhara) was the vessel by which the present Manager of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank in Shanghai, Mr. Wade Gardner, first came out to the East 18 years ago. What a descent from the piffle to the ridiculous! Did the writer of this precious piece of trashy imagination that the coming of Mr. Wade Gardner was of such interest, as to be placed side by side with a disaster which has made us all sad? Was the Bokhara chartered specially for Mr. Gardner, or is it perhaps possible that some other person may have come first out to the East? Is he, or is he not shipwrecked? What does it matter? Who cares what ship Mr. Wade Gardner first came in? What connection has Mr. Wade Gardner with the Bokhara more than thousands of other passengers who have travelled in her? What consolation, let me ask this scribbler of the Shanghai Mercury, will it be to the bereaved relatives, the widows and orphans of the lost, to know that the Bokhara was the ship in which Mr. Wade Gardner first came out to the East?

FROM the telegram, which we publish in another column, giving the result of the inter-port boat race, it would seem that the Yokohama crew did not row.

LORD Hawke's team has left England for Colombo and will probably play three matches in Ceylon, the Colombo C.C. The Colts, and Radella or Kandy, on November 11th to 23rd, thence going to Calcutta.

Mr. Wong Tsoi Hi has, we believe, had a very narrow escape in the Supreme Court. He is the litigious monomaniac whose delusion has been the mainstay and almost sole support of a large section of the legal world for a long time back. Most men have a craze of some sort, more or less strongly developed; of the most pronounced type, some think they are kings or divinities, some imagine they can fly, some believe they have the secret of eternal life, and so on; Wong Tsoi Hi was persuaded he could get satisfaction out of lawyers and their practices. After weeks, months, years of complex questions in the Hongkong Courts, after filling the columns of the newspapers with wearisome rubbish (especially the morning papers) after tiring out the Judges and making several lawyers' fortunes, he has at last resigned his reason and choked them off for ever. Only just in time, he has had a wonderful narrow escape. He still has ten cents left.

THE Northern Territory (Port Darwin) Times of October 21st has the following:—A report is current that a slaughter of Malays has taken place at a certain spot in Malay Bay, the exact situation of which we cannot find out. "From the slight information which the police are at present in possession of, we gather that a killing party, manned exclusively by Malays, arrived off the coast recently, and by a misfortune not reckoned upon dragged ashore at a point some miles further round than Mr. E. O. Robinson's station. The Malays abandoned their boat, and asked some blacks who appeared on the scene to guide them to Mr. Robinson's place. This the darkeys agreed to do, and they all set out for the station. But on the way the Malays were set upon, and according to the story now in circulation, the whole lot were killed, after which the blacks returned to the boat, and after looting its contents smashed it up. The ringleader throughout the affair, who has been tragically slain, is said to be a well-known blackfellow named Wangi Wangi, who has already served a life sentence for murder committed in the Port Essington district. Mr. E. O. Robinson, unaccompanied by any police officer, is at present hunting up more definite particulars of the massacre, about the occurrence of which there is unfortunately very little room for doubt.

THE WEST POINT SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Private Payne, of the Shropshire Light Infantry, who was shot and severely wounded by a drunken American sailor in the West Point district on Wednesday evening, is progressing favourably, the bullet having been successfully extracted from his arm and leg.

MORE ABOUT THE OCTOBER TYPHOONS.

The American barque Xenia, Captain L. D. Smith, which arrived here yesterday afternoon from Sydney (N.S.W.), sixty days out, had the misfortune to run into a typhoon when crossing the China Sea and was more or less a sufferer, as will be seen by the following extracts from the report of her voyage:—Left Sydney, N.S.W., on the 3rd September. On October 25th encountered a typhoon, in lat. 14° 40' north and long. 132° 28' east, losing 110000 and head gear, with sails, and carried away fore topmast stays. Seas running very high, and from all directions, flooding the vessel's deck fore and aft. The gale was accompanied with terrific squalls and heavy downpour of rain. On the 27th it moderated for a few hours. The wind during the typhoon worked from north 22° 30' west round to west, south 45° west and south 22° 30' east, then it hauled into the north-east, moderating for a few hours. It then came on to blow a heavy gale, with a tremendous sea which lasted until the 1st instant. Lowest barometer reading during typhoon, 29.40. Thermometer 88. On the 31st October passed through the Ballintang Channel and had fresh breeze and pleasant weather to Hongkong. Arrived here on the 3rd at 1 p.m., all well.

THE VANISHING ACT.

A STEAMSHIP BOILING FROM THOSE WHO WANTED IT.

IT is all right and very good for the United States to be held up to the world as the most "go-ahead" lot ever known, but they are not in it with Hongkong at the "go-ahead" business. When one is in Hongkong, there is an attractiveness about the rest of the world, a beauty in the aspect of the earth, that few can resist; they must get to somewhere else—it matters not where, if only it is far enough from the Isle of Fragrant Streams and Unpaid Chits. The migratory instinct becomes so strongly developed after residence here, that as a rule those who yield to it have no time for the usual formalities of departure, such as paying hotel bills, etc. They go without even waiting half an hour, as is always done by people in a hurry on the stage, to stow "I must away" or words to that effect, and are off. Hitherto, however, human beings have had a monopoly of the art. "To err is human," and so is "to bolt." There ought to be a special column among the Registrar-General's returns, so as to read—"Births, Marriages, Deaths, Disappearances"—with statistics representing the estimated defalcations;—these figures might also be embodied in the imports and exports, with a heavy accent on the "ex." We would undertake to say that the last state of that column would be worse than the first.

Now, however, the example of Hongkong nobles is being followed by others entirely outside of the human race. Not that all leading lights of Hongkong are human—we would not say that, for some of our best friends (if) belong to the animal and vegetable kingdom; but the Ass, for instance, not to mention mignonettes, and the Daily Press cabbage. All these, however, somehow pass as human beings of a sort; but now the "Vanishing Act" has been performed quite outside the human category altogether. We do not refer to the mysterious disappearance of the Yam Tiger, which the Police could not find. No! The latest performer of the justly celebrated "Hongkong Hoax" is a steamship!

The Wing Tak hong, of Hungnam, lately built a steamer to the order of a Chinese firm for the Tonkin river trade. According to our information, her tonnage is 350 gross; the hull (wood) was put together at the Wing Tak yard, British Kowloon, and was towed over to Wanchai Bay, and taken in hand by the Kwong Hip Loong firm, who put in engines of 25 h.p., compound surface-condensers, and fitted her for sea.

Rumours were afloat in seafaring circles all day yesterday that a captain and mate were required for some steamer to be taken to Tonkin or Saigon, but nobody knew what steamer it was, nor anything about her. There seemed to be some mystery about her. In fact, so about 3 p.m., a Telegraph reporter went out on the war-path, to find what was which, at any price. After toasting about for some weeks on the hearing bureau of the ragging main (i.e. Yau-ma-tei bay and sligh) he at last struck Wanchai, and unravelled the mystery.

The manager of the Kwong Hip Loong states that the steamer is called the Haitian; she is 72 feet long, 13 feet 6 in. broad, and about 150 tons gross. She has passenger accommodation for about 60 Chinese. She left Wanchai Bay at dusk yesterday evening, in charge of a Chinaman, who has, it is said, no other qualifications than some French tincture, which, however, seems to have satisfied the Hongkong Harbour authorities. The vessel was bound for Haiphong, and had no European on board.

That is the point which has roused the indignation of some worthy souls in local shipping circles—that the Haitian went without consulting them. There is usually a small surplus of seafaring talent over the requirements, and almost always there are a few old "sails" on hand on the look-out for little soft things of this kind. They had, we believe, been doing a small gamble on their respective chances of getting this job, and now they are all left—in the soup!

THE TYTAN TIGER.

LATEST NEWS FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT AT THE SEAT OF WAR.

(By Telegram.) Long-way-off, near Stanley, 4th November, 1892. We have triumphed! (Boy get some soda—and cold tea.) We have done the deed! Alone we did it, 15 of us! Details by first mail.

THE GOAT.

As I remarked before, in my cable message, we did it, we did it, and we did it, and we did it. (See Shakespeare's unpublished works.) Not that we killed the tiger. Oh, no! I didn't mean that. Don't mislead me, please. We "did it," which means that we completed our campaign without getting ourselves shot. That is what we did, and don't you forget it. As to the Tiger, he never dared to come near us. In fact, as we investigated all over the place where he wasn't, we are in a position to state on oath that he was not there. The little girl certainly appeared to be bluen, but, apparitions are often misleading; and as we, the whole available force of the police, never found him, it is certain he does not exist, and never did.

[Might have had time to die of old age before the police would get to him.—Ed., H. K. Telegraph.] One night a stray mongrel was sighted, sniffing round our camp. He refused to have anything to do with us; however, and went away. When we had recovered from our scare, we might have shot him when he was not looking; but as it happened at all mixed, for he was much smaller than an elephant, we agreed to say that it was not the right animal. Anyhow it would look so silly to march home with nothing but a week. What we want is a Tiger, and if there is not one to be had, we will do without!

There is a report among the natives that a whole lot of tigers have been devastating the district. Others say wolves. I fancy that the people mean us. We certainly wolfed all the grub there was to be found. That is why we are coming home. Yours, etc., THE GOAT.

However, he was treacherously killed, and his body beheaded. Seven troopers were also killed and beheaded by the blacks, who afterwards ate the bodies. The Nova Virgata, the organ of M. Shikela, who is acting as Russian Minister for Foreign Affairs during the absence of M. de Giers on account of illness, declares that Russia is willing to grant concessions to Great Britain in Central Asia if Lord Rosebery, the British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, is conciliatory; otherwise, it says, the Russian Government will oppose Mr. Gladstone's policy in the Balkans, in Egypt, and in Asia.

The President of the Congress delivered an address, during which he expressed himself in favour of payment of members of Parliament. It was, he said, the only hole of success by which the working classes could attain an equality with the capitalists. He also asserted that the railway companies in Great Britain were callously unjust in their treatment of the employees.

Speaking of the tendency of immigrants to Canada to proceed to the United States after their arrival in the Dominion, Dr. Goldwin Smith, of the University of Toronto, said that Canada could not much longer endure the continual flow of population to the United States. Charles Mitchell, the pugilist, appeared at the Bow-street Police Court this morning on a charge of assault. The prosecutor was an old man, and the assault was shown to have been of a most savage nature. Mitchell was convicted and sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

SHIPPING DEPRESSION AND SHIP COMPANY PROMOTING.

If the present depression continues for another twelve months, as is the general opinion, the result will prove to have been the benefactor of legitimate shipowners, as it is impossible for any permanent improvement to take place until many of the pernicious systems of ship company promoting are swept away, once and for ever. It is astounding the number of young shipowners who have within the last few years come into existence; totally unaccustomed to the mischievous in the extreme to legitimate shipowners, and in a great measure accountable for the present disastrous state of shipping affairs. We have so often alluded to the circulars distributed about the country inviting the public to become shareholders in new ship companies, and the great inducement calculated "on paper" for their doing, that we will not go into detail on this point, beyond pointing out that the dividends they refer to as having been made in existing companies under their management, and the dividends they expect to make for the new companies, are absolutely illusory, as they in no way prove that even a safe 5 per cent is attainable. It is simple enough to prove that a boat under their management has averaged 10 per cent, or 15 per cent, for the last three or four years; say that a boat costing £20,000 has paid 15 per cent, for four years—that is £1,000 deduct 5 per cent per annum as a fair return, that leaves £800 to meet a depreciation of from £500 to £1,000, according to the present value of the boat. So that the boat of £20,000 or 15 per cent dividend should not be allowed before first ascertaining if depreciation is allowed for, and also the difference in market price. A boat may have been contracted for at £100, £110, or £120, whereas now £60, or £70, is the outside price.

But how are these companies promoted? The process is very simple. An enterprising broker, or clerk, conceives the idea that the management of a ship company is a lucrative and steady-going position, for not only do the management fees and salary prove highly remunerative, but other emoluments and pickings considerably augment the income. An elaborate circular is got up holding out inducements for the public to come in and get a sufficient capital together to accept an extremely low offer from first-class builders to build a boat suitable for every imaginable trade. All the latest improvements, etc., etc. Great things are promised; there is a small fortune in prospect for every shareholder; shares should be booked quickly in order to avoid disappointment, and so on. Fair support comes in, but this is not enough to induce the builders to go on with the would-be owner. The store-dealer is then resorted to; he must go £1,000 on a contract to supply deck, engine, and cable stores at reasonable prices—not lowest current prices for good articles. A captain is found who can rake up another £1,000 on condition that he gets high wages. The insurance broker is next called upon; he invests £1,000, or £1,500, on an agreement to do all the insurance for 5 per cent brokerage instead of the 2½ per cent that most men will eagerly work for. The enterprising shipowner is still short of capital; who else can he get in? Of course, coal agents, who can have the bunkering and foreign coaling, when not bound by charter, by investing £1,000. The shipbroker can be got to manage £1,000 in consideration of doing all the chartering for two per cent brokerage, instead of the now usual 1 per cent to 1½ per cent. Still he is short of capital. He now calls on some ship-repairing company, and by promising all the repairs, etc., another £500 investor is found. The builders, finding that he is only about £2,000 or £3,000 short of contract price, agree to invest £1,000 in the ship, but the price must be increased for such important assistance; the remaining £1,000 or £2,000 they will take bills for, holding shares as security. The company is thus promoted—the ship started running—and the ship must make or lose money, because the captain must draw his £5 a month, the insurance brokers their brokerage, the shipbroker his commissions, the store dealer must sell his stores, and the manager cannot exist if the boat is laid-up.

So she is kept running, ruling the freight market, and contributing to the present depression. If shareholders would only be more cautious this class of ship company would not exist. They should know who the co-owners are, and if they find tradepeople in the concern, fight shy of it. No wonder we are passing through a crisis. We hear of people "ship-owning" who are as fit to be the proprietors of a mangling machine as of shipping property; but another twelve months of such depression as we are now experiencing will about put an end to this state of affairs, and once again see shipping in proper hands. It was because drapers, butchers, grocers, and even barbers, despised their own trades and turned shipowners that the depression about seven years ago was produced; we are evidently going through the same thing again—Fairplay.

THE WILD CAT COLUMN.

The "cold and clammy depositor" is how they describe him now in Melbourne when he wants his money back and can't get it.

Singular how the Broken Hill Block Co., which has been prospecting for some years, should find traces of silver in 1892 feet level.

The gold mine is still Mount Morgan, which returns upwards of 10,000 oz. monthly, and will probably do something of the sort for a long time yet.

Re Newcastle (N.S.W.) Coal Trust. There is much likelihood of one or more of the large collieries withdrawing from the "vend"—and therefore practically from the Association.

The payment of a fifth dividend of 1s. in the £ reduces the liabilities of the Van Dieman's Land Bank to about £50,000—£50,000 having been paid off since the smash in August '91.

The daily press ably seconds the Broken Hill directors in blinding the miners. By the way, the "foreign" miners are acting level-headedly in not black-legging. We don't wish to enlarge on this theme.

Like many a company in distress the shareholders of the Central Blocks and the Barrier have instructed their English representative "to cable any negotiations for the sale of the property." Remote hope.

Perhaps the most humorous feature of the Broken Hill strike is the cheerful persistence with which the capitalistic press keeps shifting ahead the date when sufficient hands to work the mines are "confidently expected to resume operations."

The antiquated system of N.S.W. bail procedure is conducive to infinite trouble. In a recent big case eighteen business men had to daily attend the Police Court to renew bail (the accused being locked up whilst innumerable intricacies of detail were being attended to). As if a continuing bond was not possible.

Millidge, of the late Mercantile Bank (Melb.), says he "regards the position of the bank as sound." Also, The Bulletin regards Queen Anne as not being dead. In proof of which it will back that lady to race. Millidge's bank for £5 and the game-money, the sounder institution of the pair to take the pool.

A South Australian M.P., who is also a mining-shareholder, is straightforwardly accused of inducing letters to a local daily to pretend working miner of Broken Hill. If this be true, who is the worse—the disingenuous writer, or the editor who palms off the counterfeit—we had almost said forger?

Does the guarantee of the Associated Banks, respecting all institutions under their cover, apply to N.S.W. as well as Victoria? If so, they could make a most respectable dip in the depressed shares of two of the attached banks. If the combination has no millions, the public are mad not to buy at present prices.

Rev. John Watson (N.S.W.): "I have been preaching over 50 years, but I have never known the hungering and thirsting after holiness that is now going on throughout the length and breadth of the land." Is that so? Then "Stay, Thiel!" ere there is time to work up another boom. These are the preliminary symptoms.

Cool cheek! Two men were killed in the Templestowe (Vic.) antimony mine, under conditions that reflect much blame upon the company, and now the directors appeal to the public for assistance for the relatives of the dead men. A Melbourne evening paper's heartless account of this unhappy occurrence is a scandal.

"Bills receivable" is a large and elastic balance-sheet item. The late George Durham used to tell, in his hard, grim fashion, how he once received London instructions to specially audit the balance-sheet of an Australian concern, and found the personal bills of the resident partners figuring as assets under the convenient "bills receivable."

Andy Kelly, M.P., wants all N.S.W. life and fire insurances audited and found either correct or incorrect, as a fitting sequel to boom-busting revelations. Said Caruthers, M.P., on this: "So far, life-insurance is another company carrying on business just as risky as that of any of the offices which have failed." What are the chances now of a general company-scare?

More joy in store for the shareholders of the Real Estate Bank. The Australian Property and Investment Co., which amalgamated with the bank shortly before the smash, has been liquidated. The shareholders to the effect that they will be compelled to make a "small call" of about a shilling "to liquidate certain liabilities for which the Real Bank is not liable. This on top of the 5s. and the 2s. 6d. calls from the Bank."

The laws of every colony should provide that any shareholder in any public banking or insurance Co. shall be able at any time on payment of a fair fee to immediately obtain a list of all registered shareholders up to date. All sorts of signs have been worked through directors being able to address shareholders and policyholders personally by circular—a privilege denied to interested and aggrieved people not having the office-resources at their command.

In London, the other day, somebody asked the inevitable question—"How can we do financial business with a country where the word of a 'leading man' isn't worth a straw?" The significance of this expression of a wide and deep thought will be better appreciated in a year or two. Australia makes such a grand mistake in accepting "leading" lying as a matter of course, and allowing the fairly decent trunk, limbs, and tail of the community to be judged by its political head.

In an English company's (London directorate) property up—ah, South—it was once for necessary to connect two shafts, 500 ft. apart, by means of a tunnel at the foot level. After a series of elaborate surveys, the English "managah" started the men on the job. When the tunnels didn't meet where it was expected they would, they began prospecting to find each other. When they found they couldn't find each other, each struck out for the opposite shaft. Neither hit, nor could either find it by prospecting. So the "managah" let the water get into the mine, and flooded the workings where he had been bungling. Then the London directorate were advised of the inevitable influx of water, and the ground was abandoned, and nobody has ever been the wiser.

Dear Bulletin.—The Mining Co. was formed with insufficient capital several years ago to work certain levels. After blundering along for a time it became apparent that more money would have to be raised, or the mine let on tribute. The latter alternative was adopted, and a tribute company was forthwith formed, which took the mine in hand and worked it in a sort of way ever since. This occurred some six or seven years ago, but did the directors of the former company cease to meet at certain intervals and draw certain fat fees? Not at all. Once a fortnight they met regularly and divided a sum of between nine and ten sovs. among those present. A full board always turns up and the business it transacts is something like this: The chairman, who is usually first to arrive, takes his allotted seat, calls upon the secretary to read the minutes of the previous meeting, signs the minute-book, and inquires what business there is to transact. He is told that a cheque is required for directors' fees to be paid over at next board meeting. The cheque is laboriously signed, the money on the table is hilariously divided, and the meeting adjourns. The directors' names are well, there are five of 'em, all well known in Sydney—Silver—Sydney Bulletin.

"HOW SHALL WE DECIDE THIS QUESTION?"

Now, which is the worse—to have no appetite for your dinner, or to have no dinner for your appetite?

There are lots of people on the one side or the other of this question: "When a good digestion waits on appetite and health on both," that is the ideal attitude of a person towards his meals. But most of us are not blessed in that way; we either have too much food without an appetite, or a vigorous appetite without enough to satisfy it. Different folk will answer this question differently, yet the common sense of it is that, within reasonable limits, it is better to have an appetite without a dinner, because, short of the starvation line, a hungry man is a healthy man; whereas a man who ought to eat and doesn't feel like eating, stands in need of "alterations and repairs."

To illustrate. We recently received a communication in which the writer says, "I am afraid to eat." Did he fancy his food was poisoned, or did his nature rebel against the nourishment lived on? If the latter, why? Let him clear the mystery himself.

He says, "In the year 1889 I changed my work from railway porter to signaller. I had been signaller twice months, and then all at once, so to speak, I did not feel myself. My mood tasted bad, so that ordinary articles of diet seemed to lose their flavour; the palate, to put it in that way, appeared to have nothing to say to them. One thing was like another, and none was good. My tongue was coated and furred, with a dark line down the middle and yellow far round it. My breath was offensive and my appetite poor, with pains through the chest and shoulders, which were always right before I had eaten anything. Then I was greatly troubled with wind. It did not gather so it felt like a ball in my throat, and as it would choke me."

We cannot wonder that under these circumstances one friend failed to do justice to his meals. He adds that there was what he calls "a pricking sensation" at his throat, as though it were touched with some sharp instrument. Then, again, at times he was attacked with spasms, the agony of which was so severe that the sweat rolled off him. "I dreaded," he says, "thought of eating, and many a scanty meal I made, for I was afraid to eat."

After a time I got into a low, weak, nervous condition, and felt miserable, as if something was going to happen, and this caused me to lose a good deal of sleep.

What he means by the fear of "something going to happen" is, of course, the fear of some calamity, such as the loss of his position, his own death, or the death of somebody dear to him. This was due, as he intimates, to the impoverished state of his blood (the life blood), his unquenching nerves, and the brain, combined with lack of nourishment. This night of his form of illness is always full of ghosts and goblins, the creatures of a restless and ungoverned imagination.

"With great difficulty," he says, "I stuck to my work, for I had a wife and family depending on me. So I struggled on, but what I suffered for over two years I can never describe. I am sure no one has suffered so much as I have done."

In the latter statement he is undoubtedly wrong. One's own pain is one's own, and it is always harder to bear than is one's notion of his neighbour's pain. There is a countless multitude who are all the while going through the same wretched experience, only we don't happen to come in touch with them.

Well, the writer finally mentions that after all medical treatment had left him where it found him he happened to read in a book of a case exactly like his own having been cured by Mother Seign's Syrup. "My wife," he says, "got me a bottle at Mr. Langstaff's, in Woodstock, and she has never returned since that fortunate day. I should like the whole world to know what it did for me. I have been employed by the Midland Railway Company for eleven years."
